

August 19-21, 2016

Friday - Sunday

Hilton Shreveport

Red River
Potpourri

Presented by The Louisiana Chapter of the American Academy of Pediatrics

Jointly Sponsored by:

Target Audience

An integrated educational program for pediatricians and pediatric specialists. Content is appropriate for other healthcare professionals including registered nurses.

Conference Objectives

- Incorporate the 2016 ACIP and AAP recommendations for the use of vaccines in infants, children and adolescents; recognize clinical manifestations of emerging infections, such as Zika virus and apply the latest recommendations for evaluation and management
- Recognize barriers to offering routine confidential sexual health services; list recommended, routine, and annual STI screening tests for sexually active adolescent females; recognize office systems changes that can improve routine adolescent STI screening
- Describe the differences between normal variation of growth and growth failure; appreciate the normal process of puberty and its variations in signs and timing of pubertal changes; address abnormalities in thyroid labs and correlate their findings to thyroid disease
- Identify the risk and common cause of sudden cardiac death in young athletes; recognize current recommendations for ancillary cardiac testing; develop pre-participation screening practices to decrease the chance of cardiac complications
- Properly determine the etiology of acute ataxia; determine when urgent testing, treatment, consultation and/or admission is warranted
- Distinguish which babies with prenatal hydronephrosis require surveillance or treatment; identify newborns with genital anomalies requiring further investigation
- Comply with AAP standards of care regarding appropriate practice for newborn hearing screening, follow-up, and intervention; recognize how learning changes may present in the clinical setting, both in regards to being under-recognized as well as over-attributed in evaluating development
- Identify the causes of chronic and acute poverty and the consequences of poverty for children; identify families facing poverty and assist them with finding appropriate community resources
- Identify key points of vulnerability; identify ways to mitigate theft in practice; recognize the impact theft of data, assets, and money plays in the ability to deliver quality medical care
- Recognize the features of the most common cleft and craniofacial conditions along with concerns regarding feeding, speech and oral health; describe the concept of multi-disciplinary team care of cleft and craniofacial conditions; recognize the psychosocial concerns regarding facial difference for these children and their families
